It is my honor and privilege to write this letter in recommendation of my former student, Noah Skrok. Noah was a senior in my AP Calculus BC at Stevenson High School. I found him to be an extraordinary student. He is a very dedicated and well-rounded young man with a strong work ethic, always willing to challenge himself whenever possible.

The AP curriculum can be very demanding on many high school students. Noah was able to handle the high demands and rigors of the class successfully. He knows his personal limits and pushes himself every day to raise the bar. Time management can be a difficult skill for many students in any AP course, yet this was never an issue with Noah. He consistently had his homework done and was always prepared for any upcoming assessment. He attended many of the after-school tutoring sessions that are offered, often using his time not just to get assistance, but also to help other students that were struggling with the material. Noah also attended many of the optional Saturday morning sessions that had been offered.

As a student, he would ask insightful and meaningful questions during the lecture. His peers looked to him as a leader and Noah gladly took on that role. His integrity and honesty are among the top percentage of students that I see though out my day.

It was a pleasure teaching Noah over the course of the year. He was a very positive influence on the classroom, and always came into class with a smile. I have full confidence that he will continue to be successful in whatever goals he sets for himself.

If there are any further questions regarding this recommendation, please do not hesitate to contact me using the information above.
